This is a commentary in reference to the Obama administration:
There is a nationwide rumor that President Obama is a Marxist.
Others state that he is a man whom hates the history of the black man in America, specifically the enslaving of blacks from Africa. (where he recently visited to inspect the buildings used to house and transport Black slaves to the states and other parts of the globe.) It should be noted that the slave trade during that time was a reflection of the values of some African tribes in that they did war against and capture opposing tribes and then did sell them to slave traders. Whom was there first, the slave trader or the slaves to be sold. The market was apparently created by the warring tribes. President Obama is rumored to be planning on destroying the economy of the United States in order to rid this country of the sting that it has placed on his mind as a black man without regard to any race, and that this process involves an effort to stir up a nuclear confrontation. The President is also understood to have a significant hold on the US Congress via blackmail. Others say that Obama has no notable hold on the US Congress via blackmail, but that members of the Senate and House are offended due to the exposure of their history of keeping mind control technology under wraps and all the problems that appear to have been generated by this covert use of this technology which is understood to be in every police and sheriff dept, prison facility and now even in hospitals, schools, etc... That the eventual public exposure of this mind control tech has caused the Congress to become defensive and difficult, and as such would cause them to allow a dangerous man to enter the Whitehouse and that man could be Obama. During the first 100 days, President Obama may references to what appeared to be his intent to shut down the Social Security Administration. He was using brain device communication to get permission to shut down my benefits. (he also appears to have been the person using a brain device program to make an attempt on my life.). He was also using brain device " sew-ins " (programs sewn into the televised or radio programming) that had the ability to assault targets. He demonstrated what appeared to be an effort to frustrate investigations into the controversial and questionable behavioral of President George W Bush by using a " softer " approach to the former administrator specifically having to do with Gitmo that eventually seems to have disappeared into the woodwork...leaving Bush in relative comfort. Some say that Bush is Obama: that Obama was murdered by Bush and the former president used a brain device program to replicate the appearance and voice of the black senator. While some suggest that this is possible having to do with the technologies capabilities, it appears that Obama contained all of the necessary ingredients that would enable the former president and members of Congress to " escape " the public's suspicion that they were guilty of brain device related human rights and civils and otherwise, and that Obama is using a brain device program to cause Americans to believe that he is George W Bush in order to cause the targets of this program to appear to be mentally off and therefore lacking credibility. This is where the US Congress's use of the effort to keep the machine under wraps comes into play, in that all the incredible capabilities of its use (some or many presently in the hands of even college students) cannot be publicly discussed in order to get at injustice that reflects its use such as its ability to change the nature of matter including the human body, to misrepresent the emotions, facial expressions, physical appearance, voice and other of the user or targets, and that persons trying to explain the behavior of members of the US Congress, the President, FBI and local authorities would be concluded to be mentally unstable since the US Congress would certainly be discussing these capabilities if they existed....wouldn't they? Not. The use of this technology and the developing sophistication appears to have been kept tightly under wraps for the past 60 or more years....except for leaks in local law enforcement and the media. The main thing is that Congress and the President will not identify the existence via any terminology in spoken or written form, and so doing have managed to rule out the demonstration that they were responding to any comments or allegations having to do with the existence of brain device technology. The man presently in the Whitehouse appears to be trying to pay us back, if you will, for the growing public awareness that things are amiss due to the silent use of this device and resulting offense by members of the US congress whom are expected to do something about it and will not. Recent developments: President Obama is understood to be trying to convert Americas insurance into a central government run system and at the same time is trying to stop nationwide SSA payments while expecting the payees to reimburse the government upon the risk of being jailed if they do not. SSA clients get benefits that are carefully investigated prior to payments by a determination agency and getting these benefits is hard to do. To do so in some cases may require intervention by a law firm, or judge or the caseworker office of the US Senator in question. If the determination office and SSA decide to make the payments on disability or SSI then doing so becomes the responsibility of the federal government since they have carefully examined the medical history and determined that the client is in fact disabled. If they determine that the client is eligible to receive the monthly payments, then it must be concluded that the client is disabled and unable to earn a living...or to reimburse the government for SSA services rendered. The government's decision to stop payments and to exact reimbursement reflects on the government and not on the client, nor should it be the client's place to pay back the money. Obama's insurance plan: 1. It is rumored to disband insurance company which the administrators policies may also be doing to hundreds of thousands of private businesses the past several months what with over 300,000 jobs lost in June, over 400,000 jobs lost in July and whatever is the stat this month according to the Wall Street Journals commentary in reference to the government agency that keeps stats on this. If Obama's plan succeeds, then not only would we be at the mercy of the central government's insurance company and the losses of significant insurance companies that would have served to stabilize the country, but we might be facing the need and inability to care for millions of disabled and retired former Social Security Admin clients. Rumors: President Obama used the device to beat the tar out of vice president Biden. 2. Obama is using brain device programs to exit the Whitehouse unbeknonw to the US Secret Service at nighttime in order to murder. 3. Obama is using programs to portray himself in the mind of some targets as being former president Bush and in so doing causes the target(s) to appear to be mentally off and therefore lacking credibility. Next: The FBI in Los Angeles and Burbank: movie makers appear to be at risk due to the Presidential admin and the Department of Justice officials (some of whom are holdouts appointed during the Clinton era and kept in office by President George Bush in 2000) via the FBI in Burbank and LA in that they are trying to worm their way into the lives and business of movie makers in order to manipulate the public. At risk appears to be any movie maker, and more specifically Drew Barrymore. Some suggest that the DOJ run FBI is using sophisticated brain device programs to murder and to replace movie stars and others and then taking over their assets. That is all for now.
